

RAI EXPOSED

The history of an exhibition ground

"The idea of an exhibition space is to be an exhibition space, which makes it very distinctive"

Philippe Couvreur

1895 - 2018

The historic exhibition ground around the canal is not finished. Its position and location have been kept and even strengthened during the work on the RAI building. The approach has continued into the 21st century with various exhibition areas, showing and parking zones, as well as a link-up to the new RAI building. All are part of the original concept for the exhibition ground, which is now being redeveloped. The RAI is now a place of learning, working, and living. The RAI is now a place of learning, working, and living. The RAI is now a place of learning, working, and living.

